Read This YE Corn Raisers

In this day of progressive farming, it has become absolutely necessary to secure the largest possible returns from the land, and as corn has become the most important and valuable crop, special attention should be given to the selections of both the seed and the planter. We believe that in selling you the John Deere "Oblique Selection" two-horse corn planter, we are giving you the very best planter on the market today. "Oblique Selection" is the name given this perfected seed dropping device which repeated tests show is as far ahead of the old edge drop as the edge drop was ahead of the round hole plate. It takes its name from the fact that the surface of the hopper bottom and the openings for the seed cells are oblique or sloping. With the old edge drop, the kernels had to be tipped on edge before they could enter the cells at all. The weight of the corn in the hopper interfered with this action—consequently cut down the accuracy. The John Deere Planter overcomes all these old fashioned troubles, and we would like you to come in during this week's Opening Demonstrations and hear about it and see the machine. There's an expert here who can answer all your questions.
